These two opinions of value will then be submitted to a third review appraiser who will analyze the respective appraisals and render his or her opinion to as to Fair Market Value; this will be the Certified Value. The Certified Value is the maximum dollar amount that the County, by law, is able to offer for your property.
- It is important that you understand that this appraisal process is quite expensive, requiring commitment and expenditure of thousands of dollars of Open Space funds. Therefore, if you are unprepared or unwilling to accept Fair Market Value or below, do not submit this application.
